Judith Friedrich:

Consonant with HCL's long-standing practice of providing direct access to literary award-winning titles and as a means of furthering the library's commitment to diversity, I recommend establishing a new subject heading:

Anisfield-Wolf Book Award Winners.

cn HCL form.

pn Created in 1934 by poet Edith Anisfield Wolf, a cash prize is awarded annually to "books which expose racism or explore literary diversity." The award is endowed by the Cleveland Foundation. Here are entered laureate titles in the HCL Collection.
